River Stewardship Volunteer

Riverfly stewardship practical conservation volunteers help us care for the Aire. Tasks vary throughout the year but range from tree planting to litter picking.

No prior experience is needed as we enjoy teaching new skills. A basic level of fitness is required but this is a great way to keep active and meet new people.

We run regular volunteer days every Thursday and Friday. Some people join us every week whilst others just join us when we are on their local stretch of river.

All equipment will be provided but please wear waterproof, warm clothes. We pay volunteer travel expenses and provide safety boots.

Our volunteering is open to all. Under 18s must be accompanied by an adult. Our leaders aim to make all people welcome.

We run a range of training courses for volunteers.
